SIX MONTHS OF NEW TARIFF.

Philadelphia Record Shows How Ill Grounded Are Attacks Upon It.

From the Philadelphia Record.

There is absolutely not a particle of excuse for the complaints by the Protectionist of the effects of the Underwood tariff. It has had a very moderate effect upon imports, and, of course, it can have had none on exports. If the railroads had not found their net income rapidly dimihishing, in consequence of which they cut their expenses to the bone, there would not even have been a little dullness in business for the calamity howlers to exercise their imaginations and their lungs over.

The increase of imports and the decrease of exports in April are not nearly so large fluctuations as have repeatedly occurred when no tariff change had been made. The increase of imports over the previous year was $26,000,000, but in April, 1912, there was an increase of $43,000,000 over the previous April, and this occurred under the Republican tariff.

We have now the full trade figures for the first six months under the Underwood tariff. The increase in imports of manufactured articles ready for consumption was from $215,000,000 to $228,000,000. The percentage reckoned on the domestic production, or the consumption, the increase was insignificant. Some increase of importance was bound to occur. That is what the country voted for both in 1910 and in 1912. But the Democratic revision of the tariff was so careful that its effect upon domestic production has been of the slightest.

The depression began in the iron and steel business, which depends largely on the railroads for its customers, and it is mostly in that business still. But the imports of iron and steel for the first half year under the new tariff, compared with the corresponding half year under the Payne-Aldrich tariff, have declined from $16,684,999 to $15,275,651. The imports fell off nearly a million and a half, so that they cannot possibly account for the dullness in the trade.

There has been an increase in the importation of cotton goods from less than $36,000,000 to ever $40,000,000. This is not a large percentage of the imports, and it is a very small percentage of the total production and consumption. Recent figures of cotton consumption in the country showed it was slightly larger for the past season than for the year before.

There was a very considerable increase in the importations of woolens, which rose from $9,224,466 to $16,798,130. But the woolen mills have felt the business depression less that most industries. A recent circular letter issued by a Boston bank said the woolen and worsted industry was an exception to the general dullness, that many of the mills were running overtime and some of them running at night. Evidently they are not suffering from importations.

Besides, the importation of raw wool increased nearly 26,000,000 pounds. If foreign competition had closed the mills they would not be buying more raw material.

In the six months we imported nearly 9,000,000 bushels of corn, against a nominal quantity a year earlier. Yet corn is 16 cents a bushel higher than last year. The importation has simply prevented the price going as high as it would have gone. We have imported nearly 90,000,000 pounds of fresh meats, but the Department of Agriculture reports that beef cattle have advanced more than 3 per cent. in the year. The importation of meats and cattle has merely prevented the advance from being greater.

Washington county had a "road improvement" day a short time ago. Preacher, lawyer, business man, worked side by side with the day laborer, convict, and all other condition of mankind, and all vied with one another in doing their part best. Ten thousand men put in a big day.

The Nittany Country Club is placing pheasants for breeding purposes in the mountains near the club house. Just lately a pair of silver pheasants were liberated on the club's grounds.

The Philadelphia Record.

"The Philadelphia Record" rides no hobbies and plays no favorites. It gives all the news for just what it is worth. It steers clear of sensationalism. It is clean and wholesome. Its sporting department is a tower of strength. Its financial reports are authoritative. Producers swear by its market quotations. Its editorial policies command respect and confidence. Its good-natured cartoons inimitably hit off the leading topics of the day. Good judges deem De Mar the best cartoonist in the country.

The daily issue and the Sunday issue of "The Philadelphia Record," appealing as they do to every member of the family, are leaders in their respective fields, and deserve the popularity they have achieved.

SECOND WEEK OF COURT.

Judge W. N. Seibert on Bench With Judge Orvis—Civil Cases Disposed Of.

Court convened on Monday morning, Judge W. N. Seibert of the 41st District of New Bloomfield on the bench with Judge Orvis.

The trial list was gone over and the following cases disposed of: Catharine A. Mulholland vs. M. D. Kelley and Mathew Shaddock, being an action in trespass; continued.

Joseph Lawless vs. T. A. Shoemaker, being an action in assumpsit; settled.

Comm. of Penna. ex rel W. Harrison Walker, guardian for Ruth N. Hubler, minor child of Frank Huble, deceased, vs. Ellen E. Bower and J. J. Bower, administrators of etc. of C. M. Bower, deceased, with notice to Ellen E. Bower and J. J. Bower, heirs and legal representatives of C. M. Bower, deceased, as terre tenants, being an action to revive and continue the lien of a judgment. Verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $3123.11

Nannie M. Gilliland, legatee under the last will and testament of James C. Gilliland late of College township, deceased, vs. Edward Sellers, with notice to John N. Krumrine, trustee in bankruptcy of said Edward Sellers, being an action of foreclosure of mortgage. Verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $745 50.

At this point Judge Seibert began to preside and took up the case of David McCloskey, vs. J. F. Young. This case being special to Judge Orvis and was brought by the plaintiff to recover a tract of land in Curtin township. The land was originally warranted and surveyed to David McCloskey and subsequently patented by the Comm. of Pa. to Joseph McCloskey, and at the death of the said Joseph McCloskey his will devised the lands to the children of David McCloskey subject to the use and occupancy of David McCloskey for and during his natural lifetime. Verdict on Wednesday morning awarding the land to the children of David McCloskey with no right to possession thereof until after the death of David McCloskey and awarding the life estate to the defendant.

Craig S. Rhoads and Josephine L. Rhoads, his wife, in right of Craig S. Rhoads and Josephine L. Rhoads in her own right vs. Penna. Railroad Co., a corporation chartered and doing business under and by virtue of the laws of Penna. Action in trespass.

Henry Doerr vs. same. Action in trespass.

By agreement of counsel the testimony in these three cases was taken as it is largely the same in each case at the same time. The first two cases to be submitted to the jury by argument and charge of the Court, and after the jury has passed on these cases the last mentioned case will come up for argument and charge of the Court before the same jury. The cases are on trial since Tuesday, and grew out of the automobile accident at the Milesburg crossing on the 2nd day of July last.

The Y. M. C. A. of this place intend holding an anniversary celebration in the Evangelical church on Sabbath evening.

Memorial Day services.

Memorial services at all points on the south side of Centre county were largely attended, the day having been perfect from day break to dark. At Centre Hall the attendance was larger than for a number of years and a larger number of children than usual were in line. The Odd Fellows, who appeared for the first time in their new dress, added to the numbers and to the interest of the occasion. The procession was headed by the children, and then came the daughters of soldiers, the veterans, the Coleville band and the Odd Fellows. After the strewing of the flowers on the graves of the soldiers, a line was again formed and led to the Methodist church, where the exercises were held. There was music by a select choir under the leadership of Prof. P. H. Meyer, with Miss Rebecca Kreamer at the organ, and an address by Rev. F. W. Barry. Former Sheriff Cyrus Brungart had the exercises in charge as during the past few years.

Fire at State College.

Fire completely destroyed the plumbing establishment of Albert Deal and the blacksmith and carriage repair shop of William F. Ertley on the morning of May 23, entailing a loss of over $5,000.

The fire started in the Ertley shop and before an alarm could be sounded the entire structure was a raging furnace.

Mr. Deal's loss will aggregate $5,000, which will be total. Mr. Ertley's loss will be about $500

Houser Reunion.

The fourth annual reunion of the Houser family will be held at Rock View Park, on Thursday, June 18 h. A fine program has been arranged by those in charge, and every effort is being put forth to make this the best day of all. For further information address, A. R. Houser, Bellefonte.

Mrs. Catharine Ketner, formerly of Hecla, died in Altoona, aged sixty-five years.

Beginning June 1st the County commissioners will pay bounties upon all noxious animals, in accordance with the recent act of legislature.

LETTERS FROM SUBSCRIBERS

Mrs. David B. Kline Writes of the Beauties and Wonders of California.

OCEAN PARK, California,
May 18, 1914.

While staying here last year I wrote your paper at some length of the great devastation wrought by the fire that swept bare the greater portion of this beautiful city beside the sea. The promise to build "greater and better" has been made good. Grand and beautiful buildings have risen like magic out of its black ruins.

King George Hotel with its large annex—Rose Villa—are among the most notable. I do not think I have ever seen a building to compare with the annex Rose Villa. Pure white outside, walks and all, and inside it is true to its name, the colors of the red rose being used with pure white, both in the adornment and the furnishing. The rose pattern and its color is carried out with very pleasing effect in the art glass windows. All the outside lights are rose color, making the whole building one of pleasing architecture.

The amusement pier is up and finished and has all the attractions of the old with many new ones added. On it is everything to part people and their money.

But the grand old ocean is just as old and ever new as of yore, free to see, enjoy and bathe in as it ever was, and ever will be, until times shall be no more.

This morning we took a long ride and it would give me great pleasure could I give you a vivid pen picture of just a few of the things we saw. First we went to Playa del Ray. The road is broad and wide and smooth as glass and keeps close to the sea all the way. From there the chauffeur turned towards the city of Venice, noted for its beautiful canals, then on up to the city of Los Angeles (which is about ten miles from Ocean Park), when we again turned towards the sea by way of Santa Monica Boulevard. Even the Apponine Way in the Apostle Paul's time could not have been any more broad and smooth than is this wonderful piece of road building. On our way we passed through the Soldiers Home, near Sawtelle, where are living a life of perfect ease and elegance, amidst the most beautiful surrounding, two thousand soldiers of the Civil and Spanish wars. I am glad that so many of those remaining can spend their declining days in such a beautiful land with so perfect a climate.

California is indeed a wonderful land and I cannot do it better justice than to quote from the alluring pen of a brilliant writer: "If anyone would truly know how truly glorious is this wonderous state of California, he must see for himself its versatile and enchanting beauties. Where in all the world is there such a wealth of treasures for the artist and poet? California with its thousand miles of embroidered sea shore, with its towering mountains, created with the diadem of eternal winter, and its golden strands stretching out into perpetual summer, with its eagles in the dizzy crags and its mocking birds in every tree-top, with its towering sequaias and its graceful pepperi, its shasta daisies and its starry jasmines, with its mountains filled with gold and an atmosphere more richly ladened with health and sunshine." California with its happy homes and cordial churches, crowded schools and classic universities. So all who can, come, see, enjoy and abide in the richest and fairest of all lands.

"I love you California, you're the greatest state of all
I love you in the winter, summer, spring and in the fall,
I love your fertile valleys; your dear mountains I adore,
I love your grand old ocean and I love your rugged shore.

I love your gray old missions, love your vineyards stretching far,
I love you California with your Golden Gate ajar,
I love your purple sunsets, love your skies of azure blue,
I love you California, I just can't help loving you."

MRS. DAVID B. KLINE,
Los Angeles, California.

Birthday Party.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Emery gave a party in honor of the birthday of their second daughter, Miss Lillian Emery, Thursday night of last week. It was a surprise to the young lady who is quite popular with those of her age. Refreshments consisting of ice cream, cake, sandwiches, ice tea and other delicacies were served. The following were present: Mary Whiteman, Ethel Rowe, Nina Slick, Carrie Bell Emerick, Ida Sweetwood, James Keller, James Lingle, Thomas Foss, Carl Auman.

Oklahoma is crying for help to harvest her bountiful wheat crops. Fifteen thousand men are wanted to gather in the 40,000,000 bushels, the largest the state has ever produced.

MEETING OF COUNTY GRANGE.

May Session Held in Washington Grange Hall on Thursday.

Thursday of last week the May session of the Centre County Pomona Grange was held in Washington Grange Hall, above State College. The attendance was quite large, there being representatives there from various sections of the county. Outside of Washington Grange, Progress Grange was represented by the largest number of Fifth Degree members, there having been twenty-eight of them in attendance.

In his address of welcome, John S. Dale, a member of Washington Grange, made the statement that that grange was gaining largely in membership, and that it now had over one hundred members. Agricultural students at Pennsylvania State College are becoming interested in Grange work and fifty or more have become members of the Order.

Prof. C. R. Neff responded to the address of welcome and spoke of the social, educational and financial phazes of the Grange. He touched on various topics, among them the questions for discussion in Grange meetings, and contended that farming as a business ought to receive the greater part of the attention of members in Grange session instead of agricultural topics. He was agreed with.

Samuel Corl, D. F. Luse, and Mrs. Jacob Sharer were appointed a committee on credentials.

Mr. Rhone, as chairman of the executive committee of the Order, made a report of the Grange Co-operative Creamery Company at Centre Hall, which began operations February 1st, and showed the proposition to be a profitable one. His statements were supported by the reports of the secretary, D. F. Luse, and treasurer, D. L. Bartges.

D. K. Keller, secretary of the Grange fire insurance company, made a very favorable report, and a similar report of the Patrons Rural Telephone Company was made by the secretary, S. W. Smith.

Messrs. D. L. Bartges and John S. Dale were added to the Grange Encampment committee, and the whole committee now consists of Leonard Rhone, George Gingerich, G. L. Goodhart, and the two members elected at this session.

Prof. Watts gave a talk just before the noon recess that was highly interesting and instructive, and Hon. L. Rhone and Prof. C. R Neff talked on rural credits.

The noon luncheon was an elaborate affair. Three large tables accommodated the guests. These were sheltered by a tent and beautiful maple trees, and were ladened with the choicest provisions fresh from the various store houses on the farm.

I. O. O. F. Decoration Services.

Lodge No. 895, I. O. O. F., will hold decoration services Sunday afternoon at the following places and hours: Tusseyville, 1:30 o'clock; Spruce town, 2 o'clock; Centre Hill, 3:15 o'clock; Centre Hall, 6:30 o'clock. All Odd Fellows, Rebekahs and children are requested to be at the Lodge room not later than 6:15 o'clock. A program of speaking and singing has been arranged. An address will be delivered by Rev. R. Williams of Spring Mills. The general public is invited to participate.

Near Murder at Lock Haven.

Poor aim on the part of a would-be murderer is what saved the life of Nick Santopietro when his brother-in-law, Tony Grand, fired a bullet at him because Stantopietro had eloped with Grand's sister. All are Italians and the affair took place in Lock Haven last Thursday.

The parents of Rosie Grand declined to give their consent to her marriage to Santopietro, so the young couple fled to Maryland and had the knot tied. Tony Grand was on the lookout for his hated brother-in-law and nearly carried out his desire when the bullet missed Santopietro's head by a few inches. Both are under bail.

HORSE SALE AT CENTRE HALL.

Peachy & Yoder Will Hold Their Fourth Sale of Good Western Horses on Friday, June 5th.

At the livery barn in Centre Hall, on Friday, June 5th, 12 o'clock noon, Peachy & Yoder will sell a car load of fine western horses. These horses will be up to the usual high standard of horses sold at previous sales. In the lot are horses and mares ready for work, good single-broke horses, and mated teams; also a few brood mares. The colors are bays, dark greys and blacks.

These horsemen have heretofore been altogether fair in their dealings with their customers in the three sales held at Centre Hall during the spring months, and they can be relied upon to continue that method of dealing at future sales.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS.

HAPPENINGS OF LOCAL INTEREST FROM ALL PARTS

June 4th today.

Misses Hazel and Lillian Emery attended commencement exercises of the State College high school Friday evening.

Mrs. W. S. Musser, formerly of Millheim, is in a Keokuk, Iowa, hospital where she recently underwent a delicate operation.

Dr. H. F. Bitner publishes letters testamentary on the estate of Mary Rhoda Potter, late of Potter township, deceased, in this issue.

The fourth annual Ziegler reunion will be held on Grange Park, Saturday, June 20th, at 9:30 a. m. A good program is being prepared by the committee.

While visiting his daughter, who lives on a farm near Reedsville, James Durst, while in the act of climbing over a fence, fell with such force as to break a bone in one of his arms.

If you are in need of a good horse come to the horse sale on Friday, at Centre Hall, by Peachey and Yoder. The animals will be worth looking over even if you do not intend to buy.

Volume 2, number 4, of the Reformed Church Bulletin is in the hands of its readers. Rev. R. R. Jones, the editor, finds the Bulletin an excellent supplement to his pulpit work in his charge.

W. S. Tate of Pine Grove Mills is on an extended trip through the west and north to Canada. He will visit a brother in Illinois, then go to Kansas, and from there to Alberta, Canada, where a sister lives.

Mrs. J. L. Tressler of Linden Hall and Mrs. Frank P. Floray of Centre Hall, attended the funeral of Anna Ripka Clouting, in Middleburg, a niece of the former. An account of the death appears in another column.

Saturday, the first day of August, has been set aside as Farmers Day in Sugar Valley. At the picnic to be held near Loganton on that day one of the speakers will be Hon. W. T. Creasy, Democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor.

Thursday, May 28, will hold the heat record for a May day for years to come, no doubt. Ninety-three in the shade is good enough for July or August, but May should content herself with dealing with the seventies, where she rightfully belongs.

Miss May. V. Rhone of Harrisburg, accompanied by Charles Collen of Huntingdon, spent Memorial Day at the home of the former's father, Hon. L. Rhone. Bert Bayard, local editor of the Tyrone Times, was also a guest at the Rhone home for a day.

H. F. McManaway has accepted a position as traveling salesman for a large wholesale sporting goods store in Philadelphia. His territory comprises the states of Michigan and Wisconsin and part of Illinois. He will probably move his family to Detroit this summer.

The Lewisburg and Tyrone railroad has been acquired by the P. R. R. The line, which is sixty-four miles long, runs from Montandon to Bellefonte. The purchase price was $60,400. From all indications the proposed link between Oak Hall and State College will now be built.

Harry Hubler, a Pennsy employee at Pine, Clinton county, was at his home from Thursday until Friday of last week. He was accompanied by Miss Madge Garrett of Bellefonte, and those who think they know say that Harry has a house all ready furnished near his place of work.

Every week C. S. Brungart reports the sale of more Krit cars. The latter part of last week he found purchasers in L. E. Bartges, a painter, and A. A. Stover, a farmer, both of Aaronsburg. Mr. Brungart went to Philadelphia Friday to get the cars and delivered them to their owners on Monday.

Mrs. Mary Dinges returned from a month's visit to Lewisburg at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Ocker. On Monday Mr. and Mrs. Ocker started on an extended trip through the west, and will be gone for several months. They have not planned a complete itinerary, but they will at least go as far as Colorado, and perhaps to the Pacific coast. They covered a part of this territory a few years ago.

Susan Stapleton Brubaker of Mifflinburg will instruct a class in elecution, voice and physical culture in the high school room, Centre Hall, the first session to be held Saturday, June 6th, 10:30 a. m. Some years ago Mrs. Brubaker conducted a similar class in Centre Hall, and it was splendidly patronized and proved profitable to the students. It is urged that the present class will be taken advantage of by the young people. This work will be valuable to teachers and is easily within the reach of all.

Treasurer's Sale of Unseated Land for Non-Payment of Taxes for 1912 and 1913.

Agreeable to the provisions of the Act of Assembly entitled "An Act directing the mode of selling unseated lands for taxes and other purposes," passed the 13th day of March, 1815, and the further supplements thereto, passed the 13th day of March, 1817, the 23rd day of March, 1831, the 19th day of March, 1845, and the 30th day of March, 1897,

I, John D. Miller, Treasurer of the County of Centre, hereby give notice to all persons concerned thereon, that unless the county, road, school and poor taxes due and remaining unpaid for the years 1912 and 1913, or for any previous years, on the following described tract or parts of tracts of unseated lands, situated in said County of Centre, be paid before the day of sale, the whole or such part of each tract of said lands as will pay the taxes and costs chargeable thereon, will be exposed to public sale or outcry, at the court house in the City of Bellefonte, in said county, commencing on the second Wednesday of June next (it being the 10th day thereof) and continuing by adjournment from day to day, until all are sold.

TALES OF HEROISM TOLD BY SURVIVORS

DEATH CAUSED BY BLAST

Quebec.—Thrilling tales of heroism, stories of futile fights for life, narratives that tell of the horrors of that fateful few moments after the Empress of Ireland was rammed by the Storstad poured from the lips of the rescued when the special train bearing them reached this city.

There was little voiced criticism for the terrible loss of life; rather those who had been snatched from the jaws of death seemed anxious to tell of men who had proven themselves heroes in the supreme moments of their lives.

Special praise was given to the work of Dr. James F. Grant of Victoria, B. C., ship surgeon on the Empress. To his coolness was credited the saving of a large number of persons taken out of the water who probably would have perished had they not received prompt medical attention.

Surgeon's Own Narrow Escape.

A graphic description of the scene on the Empress of Ireland after the collision was given by Doctor Grant.

"I was in my cabin," said the ship's surgeon, "and knew nothing of the accident until the boat listed so that I tumbled out of my berth and then rolled under it. I tried to turn on the light, but there was no power. I reached the bolted door, but the list was so strong that it took me considerable time to open it.

"When finally I got out and reached the passageway it was so steep, due to the way the ship was canted, that my efforts to climb were rendered impossible by the carpet which I was clinging to breaking away.

"I then scrambled up and managed to get my head through a porthole, but I was unable to get my shoulders through. At that time the ship was lying almost flat in the water on its starboard side.

"A passenger finally managed to pull me through the porthole.

Sank With One Hundred Others.

"About a hundred passengers were gathered on the side of the ship at the time, but a moment after I joined them the vessel took another list and plunged to the bottom.

"I next found myself in the water and swam toward the lights of the steamer Storstad, and when nearly exhausted from the struggle and the exposure I was picked up by a lifeboat.

"This boat went on to the scene of the disaster and picked up a load of survivors from the water and then took them on board the Storstad. There we were wrapped in blankets and I was provided with clothes.

"When able I did what I could to help the survivors. Some of them, however, were in such exhausted condition that they died."

Child Says She Saved Herself.

Only two children are known to have been saved from the wreck. A wonderful rescue was one of these—little eight-year-old Gracie Hanagan, daughter of the leader of the Salvation Army band. Her father and mother were both drowned. Gracie was not told of her loss and believed at night that her father and mother would come to Quebec on the next boat.

When asked how she was saved Gracie replied: "Oh, I saved myself."

The child was entirely unconcerned, apparently not realizing what she had been through. No lifeboat was near when she was thrown from the Empress. She sank at once, but rose to the surface in a moment, saw a piece of floating wood near her and seized it. Later she was pulled into a lifeboat. She had been benumbed to the point of exhaustion by the cold water, but kindly hands worked skilfully to revive her and she soon was entirely restored.

Saves Self and Wife.

Major Attwell of Toronto and his wife were among the saved.

"I got a life belt for my wife," said Major Attwell, "and we both jumped into the water together when we saw that the vessel was doomed to go down. We both sank three times, being carried under by the suction of the foundering vessel. When we came up the third time I saw a lifeboat near, and to it I swam, pulling my wife after me. Then those in the boat pulled us in and we were saved.

"The impact was just sufficient to waken us. It sounded as if our boat had struck a rock. It was very slight, and I was surprised when I afterward came to realize the awful consequences of the crash. When we got on deck there were very few persons to be seen. In fact, the people on the deck were so few that they were hardly noticeable.

"The reason for this is that when the boat had listed to one side the stairs from the sleeping apartments up to the boat decks were very difficult, almost impossible to mount. I did not see the hole in the side of our ship as I rushed for the stairs, but I did see the water entering in such volume that it threatened to drown us before we could mount the stairs."

Salvation Army Man's Story.

A. McIntyre was in the second cabin with most of the other Salvation Army passengers. He told a vivid story of his own experiences and of what he saw as he swam to safety.

"Virtually every leading officer of the Salvation Army in Canada is gone," he said. "Commissioner Rees and his wife and the children sank and only three of this family survive. Out of our Salvation party of 150 on board probaby less than twenty were rescued.

"I was on the upper deck and therefore had a better chance to get to safety than those in the lower berths. The water came in through the portholes of the lower decks before the passengers there realized their danger or that there was danger at all.

"I was aroused from my sleep by the impact and awoke the others in my cabin. I could then hear plainly the rush of water, and I felt sure that something serious had happened. I also heard the machinery of the boat running. It did not stop immediately after the crash, but continued until the explosion occurred.

Gave Woman His Life Belt.

"I grabbed a life preserver and went out to the deck. On deck there were no life belts and quite a number of people were standing about apparently unable to determine what to do. I gave my belt to Mrs. Foord, one of our party. I tied the belt on her myself.

"My three comrades went to the bottom. I swam in the direction of the vessel that ran us down and was pulled into a lifeboat of the collier. I saw the collier standing not far from where the Empress foundered. It was all lighted up.

"When I was taken on board I saw many men rescued, practically unclothed. I was almost in a state of nakedness myself, and the rest of those on board were shivering and in a bad state from the icy water of the river and the chilly morning air. Soon, however, we were attended to by those on board the collier and made warm and comfortable.

Heard Boilers Blow Up.

"As I swam through the icy waters I heard the dull explosion caused by the water reaching the engines of the sinking ship. It was followed by a burst of steam that spread to all parts of the vessel. Then came a quick listing of the liner and she turned over. It looked to me as if she turned turtle.

"I don't think there were many first-class passengers saved. I saw only one of the first-class boats lowered.

"The weather was virtually calm and there was plenty of light on the water when I came on deck. I saw no fog.

"I thought at first we had hit a rock. Some officers of the vessel came along and said that the ship would not go any further, for bottom had been struck.

Praise Liner's Crew.

"The behavior of the crew was, on the whole, good, though it must be said that the men hardly had time to collect themselves or to effect rescues in any systematic way.

"The boat was really sinking before the crew or anybody else realized it or could do anything.

"Those of the crew who got to the deck tried to launch a boat on the upturned side of the vessel, but this was impossible, because the list was such that the boat could not be put into the water and landed on the side of the vessel.

"The decks were almost perpendicular, so that many passengers in order to escape had to slide down from the higher side to the lower or water side."

Another Tells of Explosion.

A story that there was a tremendous explosion on the Empress of Ireland after it was hit by the Storstad was told by Philip Lawler, a steerage passenger from Brantford, Ont. He was on the way to England with his wife and son Herbert, aged fifteen.

When the collision came the Empress listed under the severe shock and water rushed into the steerage quarters. A few seconds later there came an explosion that shook the vessel. This probably was when the water reached the boilers, Mr. Lawler said.

People were simply shot out of the ship into the sea by the explosion," Mr. Lawler added. "I was pushed overboard with my wife and boy. The boy could swim, so I tried to take care of my wife, but somehow she slipped from my grasp and sank."

RELAND CAPTURED CRIPPEN CAPTAIN OF EMPRESS OF I

New York, May 30.—Capt. H. G. Kendall, commander of the Empress of Ireland, brought about the capture of Dr. Hawley H. Crippen, American dentist, who was accused of murdering his wife, Belle Elmore Crippen, in London.

Doctor Crippen, with his stenographer, Ethel Clara Leneve, took passage July 22, 1910, on the steamship Montrose of the Antwerp service, which Captain Kendall commanded at the time. Five days later police officials at Quebec received a wireless message from Captain Kendall which said that Doctor Crippen and Miss Leneve were aboard. They had taken passage as "Rev. John Robinson and John Robinson, Jr." Miss Leneve was disguised as a boy.

The VALIANTS of VIRGINIA

SYNOPSIS.

John Valiant, a rich society favorite, suddenly discovers that the Valiant corporation, which his father founded and which was the principal source of his wealth, has failed. He voluntarily turns over his private fortune to the receiver for the corporation. His entire remaining possessions consist of an old motor car, a white bull dog and Damory court, a neglected estate in Virginia. On the way to Damory court he meets Shirley Dandridge, an auburn-haired beauty, and decides that he is going to like Virginia immensely. Shirley's mother, Mrs. Dandridge, and Major Bristow exchange reminiscences during which it is revealed that the major, Valiant's father, and a man named Sasson were rivals for the hand of Mrs. Dandridge in her youth. Sasson and Valiant fought a duel on her account in which the former was killed. Valiant finds Damory court overgrown with weeds and creepers and the buildings in a very much neglected condition. He decides to rehabilitate the place and make the land produce a living for him. Valiant saves Shirley from the bite of a snake, which bites him. Knowing the deadliness of the bite, Shirley sucks the poison from the wound and saves his life. Shirley tells her mother of the incident and the latter is strangely moved at hearing that a Valiant is again living at Damory court. Valiant learns for the first time that his father left Virginia on account of a duel in which Doctor Southall and Major Bristow acted as his father's seconds.

"You are cold," he said. "Isn't that gown too thin for this night air?"

"No, I often walk here till quite late. Listen!"

The bird song had broken forth again, to be answered this time by a rival's in a distant thicket. "My nightingale is in good voice."

"I never heard a nightingale before I came to Virginia. I wonder why it sings only at night."

"What an odd idea! Why, it sings in the daytime, too."

"Really? But I suppose it escapes notice in the general chorus. Is it a large bird?"

"No; smaller than a thrush. Only a little bigger than a robin. Its nest is over there in that hedge—a tiny loose cup of dried oak-leaves, lined with hair, and the eggs are olive color. How pretty the hedge looks now, all tangled with firefly sparks!"

"Doesn't it! Uncle Jefferson calls them 'lightning-bugs.'"

"The name is much more picturesque. But all the darky sayings are. Do you find him and Aunt Daphne useful?"

"He has been a godsend," he said fervently; "and her cooking has taught me to treat her with passionate respect. He's teaching me now about flowers—it's surprising how many kinds he knows. He's a walking herbarium."

"Come and see mine," she said. "Roses are our specialty—we have to live up to the Rosewood name. But beyond the arbors, are beds and beds of other flowers. See—by this big tree are speed-well and delphinium. The tree is a black-walnut. It's a dreadful thing to have one as big as that. When you want something that costs a lot of money you go and look at it and wonder which you want most, that particular luxury or the tree. I know a girl who had two in her yard only a little bigger than this, and she went to Europe on them. But so far I've always voted for the tree. How does your garden come on?"

"Famously. Uncle Jefferson has shanghaied a half-dozen negro gardeners—from where I can't imagine—and he's having the time of his life hectoring over them. He refers to the upper and lower terraces as 'up-and-down-stairs.' I've got seeds, but it will be a long time before they flower."

"Oh, would you like some slips?" she cried. "Or, better still, I can give you the roses already rooted—Mad Charles and Marechal Neil and Cloth of Gold and cabbage and ramblers. We have geraniums and fuchsias, too, and the coral honeysuckle. That's different from the wild one, you know."

"You are too good! If you would only advise me where to set them! But I dare say you think me presuming."

She turned her full face to him. "'Presuming!' You're punishing me now for the dreadful way I talked to you about Damory Court—before I knew who you were. Oh, it was unpardonable! And after the splendid thing you had done—I read about it that same evening—with your money, I mean!"

"No, no!" he protested. "There was nothing splendid about it. It was only pride. You see the corporation was my father's great idea—the thing he created and put his soul into—and it was foundering. I know that would have hurt him. One thing I've wanted to say to you, ever since the day we talked together—about the duel. I want to say that whatever lay behind it, my father's whole life was darkened by that event. Now that I can put two and two together, I know that it was the cause of his sadness."

"Ah, I can believe that," she replied.

"I think he had only two interests—myself and the corporation. So you see why I'd rather save that and be a beggar the rest of my natural life. But I'm not a beggar. Damory Court alone is worth—I know it now—a hundred times what I left."

"You are so utterly different from what I imagined you!"

"I could never have imagined you," he said, "never."

"I must be terribly outre."

"You are so many women in one. When I listened to your harp playing I could hardly believe it was the same you I saw galloping across the fields that morning. Now you are a different woman from both of those."

As she looked at him, her lips curled corner-wise, her foot slipped on the sheer edge of the turf. She swayed toward him and he caught her, feeling for a sharp instant the adorable nearness of her body. It ridged all his skin with a creeping delight. She recovered her footing with an exclamation, and turned back somewhat abruptly to the porch where she seated herself on the step, drawing her filmy skirt aside to make a place for him. There was a moment of silence which he broke.

"That exquisite serenade you were playing! You know the words, of course."

"They are more lovely, if possible, than the score. Do you care for poetry?"

"Ive always loved it," he said. "I've been reading some lately—a little old-fashioned book I found at Damory Court. It's 'Lucile.' Do you know it?"

"Yes. It's my mother's favorite."

He drew it from his pocket. "See, I've got it here. It's marked, too."

He opened it, to close it instantly—not, however, before she had put out her hand and laid it, palm down, on the page. "That rose! Oh, let me have it!"

"Never!" he protested. "Look here. When I put it between the leaves, I did so at random. I didn't see till now that I had opened it at a marked passage."

"Let us read it," she said.

He leaned and held the leaf to the light from the doorway and the two heads bent together over the text.

A sound fell behind them and both turned. A slight figure, in a soft gray gown with old lace at the throat, stood in the doorway behind them. John Valiant sprang to his feet.

"Ah, Shirley, I thought I heard voices. Is that you, Chilly?"

"It's not Mr. Lusk, mother," said Shirley. "It's our new neighbor, Mr. Valiant."

As he bent over the frail hand, murmuring the conventional words that presentations are believed to require, Mrs. Dandridge sank into a deep cushioned chair. "Won't you sit down?" she said. He noticed that she did not look directly at him, and that her face was as pallid as her hair.

"Thank you," said John Valiant, and resumed his place on the lower step.

Shirley, who had again seated herself, suddenly laughed, and pointed to the book which lay between them. "Imagine what we are doing, dearest! We were reading 'Lucile' together."

She saw the other wince, and the deep dark eyes lifted, as if under compulsion, from the book-cover to Valiant's face. He was startled by Shirley's cry and the sudden limp unconscious settling-back into the cushions of the fragile form.

CHAPTER XIX.

Night.

A quicker breeze was stirring as John Valiant went back along the Red Road. He had waited in the garden at Rosewood till Shirley, aided by Emmaline and with Ranston's anxious face hovering in the background, having performed those gentle offices which a woman's fainting spell requires, had come to reassure him and to say good night.

As he threw off his coat in the bedroom he had chosen for his own, he felt the hard corner of the "Lucile" in the pocket, and drawing it out, laid it on the table by the bedside. He seemed to feel again the tingle of his cheek where a curling strand of her coppery hair had sprung against it when her head had bent beside his own to read the marked lines.

When he had undressed he sat an hour in the candle-blaze, a dressing-gown thrown over his shoulders, striving vainly to recreate that evening call, to remember her every word and look and movement. For a breath her face would flush suddenly before him, like a live thing; then it would mysteriously fade and elude him, though he clenched his hands on the arms of his chair in the fierce mental effort to recall it. Only the intense blue of her eyes, the tawny sweep of her hair—these and the touch of her, the consciousness of her warm and vivid fragrance, remained to wrap all his senses in a mist woven of gold and fire.

* * * * * * * * *

Shirley, meanwhile, had sat some time beside her mother's bed, leaning from a white chintz-covered chair, her anxiety only partially allayed by reassurances, now and then stooping to lay her young cheek against the delicate arm in its lacy sleeve or to pass her hand lovingly up and down its outline, noting with a recurrent passion of tenderness the transparency of the skin with its violet veining and the shadows beneath the closed eyes. Emmaline, moving on soft worsted-shod feet about the dim room, at length had whispered.

"You go tuh baid, honey. I stay with Mis' Judith till she go tuh sleep."

"Yes, go, Shirley," said her mother.

Tried the Numbers Carefully, First Right, Then Left: 17—28—94—0. The Heavy Door Opened.

"Haven't I any privileges at all? Can't I even faint when I feel like it, without calling out the fire-brigade? You'll pamper me to death and heaven knows I don't need it."

"You won't let me telephone for Doctor Southall?"

"Certainly not!"

"And you are sure it was nothing but the roses?"

"Why, what else should it be?" said her mother almost peevishly. "I must really have the arbors thinned out. On heavy nights it's positively overpowering. Go along now, and we'll talk about it tomorrow. I can ring if I want anything."

In her room Shirley undressed thoughtfully. There was between her and her mother a fine tenuous bond of sympathy and feeling as rare, perhaps, as it was lovely. She could not remember when the other had not been a semi-invalid, and her earliest childhood recollections were punctuated with the tap of the little cane. Tonight's sudden indisposition had shocked and disturbed her; to faint at a rush of perfume seemed to suggest a growing weakness that was alarming. Tomorrow, she told herself, she would send Ranston with a wagon-load of the roses to the hospital at Charlottesville.

She slipped on a pink shell-shaded dressing-gown of slinky silk with a riot of azaleas scattered in the weave, and then, dragging her chair before the open window, drew aside the light curtain and began to brush her hair. All at once her gaze fell upon the floor, and she shrank backward from a twisting thread-like thing whose bright saffron-yellow glowed sharply against the dark carpet. She saw in an instant, however, that it was nothing more dangerous than a fragment of love-vine from the garden, which had clung to her skirt. She picked up the tiny mass of tendrils and with a slow smile tossed it over her right shoulder through the window. "If it takes root," she said aloud, "my sweetheart loves me." She leaned from the sill to peer down into the misty garden, but could not follow its fall.

Long ago her visitor would have reached Damory Court. She had a vision of him wandering, candle in hand, through the empty echoing rooms, looking at the voiceless portraits on the walls, thinking perhaps of his father, of the fatal duel of which he had never known. She liked the way he had spoken of his father!

As she leaned, out of the stillness there came to her ear a mellow sound. It was the bell of the courthouse in the village. She counted the strokes falling clearly or faintly as the sluggish breeze ebbed or swelled. It was eleven.

She drew back, dropped the curtain to shut out the wan glimmer, and in the darkness crept into the soft bed as if into a hiding-place.

A warm sun and an air mildly mellow. A faint gold-shadowed mist over the valley and a soft lilac haze blending the rounded outlines of the hills. Through the shrubbery at Damory Court a cardinal darted like a crimson shuttle, to rock impudently from a fleering limb, and here and there on the bluish-ivory sky, motionless as a pasted wafer, hung a hawk; from time to time one of these wavered and slanted swiftly down, to climb once more in a huge spiral to its high tower of sky.

Perhaps it wondered, as its telescopic eye looked down. That had been its choicest covert, that dishevelled tangle where the birds held perpetual carnival, the weasel lurked in the underbrush and the rabbit lined his windfall. Now the wildness was gone. A pergola, glistening white, now upheld the runaway vines, making a sickle-like path from the upper terrace to the lake. In the barn loft the pigeons still quarrelled over their new cotes of fresh pine, and under a clump of locust trees at a little distance from the house, a half-dozen dolls' cabins on stilts stood waiting the honey-storage of the black and gold bees.

There were new denizens, also. These had arrived in a dozen zinc tanks and willow hampers, to the amaze of a sleepy express clerk at the railroad station: two swans now sailed majestically over the lily-ponds of the lake, along its gravel rim and a pair of bronze-colored ducks waddled and preened, and its placid surface rippled and broke to the sluggish backs of goldfish and the flirting fins of red Japanese carp.

The house itself wore another air. Its look of unkemptness had largely vanished. The soft gray tone of age remained, but the bleakness and forlornness were gone; there was about all now a warmth and genial bearing that hinted at mellowed beauty, firelight and cheerful voices within.

Valiant heaved a long sigh of satisfaction as he stood in the sunlight gazing at the results of his labors. He was not now the flippant boulevardier to whom money was the sine qua non of existence. He had learned a sovereign lesson—one gained not through the push and fight of crowds, but in the simple peace of a countryside, unvexed by the clamor of gold and the complex problems of a competitive existence—that he had inherited a need of activity, of achievement that he had been born to do.

"Chum," he said, to the dog rolling on his back in the grass, "what do you think of it all, anyway?" He reached down, seized a hind leg and whirling him around like a teetotum, sent him flying into the bushes, whence Chum launched again upon him, like a catapult. He caught the white shoulders and held him vise-like. "Just about right, eh? But wait till we get those ramblers!"

"And to think," he continued, whimsically releasing him, "that I might have gone on, one of the little-neck-clam crowd I've always trained with, at the same old pace, till the Vermouth-cocktail-Palm-Beach career got a double Nelson on me and the umpire counted me out. At this moment I wouldn't swap this old house and land, and the sunshine and that 'gyarden and Unc' Jefferson and Aunt Daph and the chickens and the birds and all the rest of it, for a mile of Millionaires' Row."

He went into the house and to the library. The breeze through the wide-flung bow-window was fluttering the papers on the desk and the map on the wall was flapping sidewise. He went to straighten it, and then saw what he had not noticed before—that it covered something that had been let into the plaster. He swung it aside and made an exclamation.

He was looking at a square, uncompromising wall-safe, with a round figured disk of white metal on its face. He knelt before it and tried its knob. After a moment it turned easily. But the resolute steel door would not open, though he tried every combination that came into his mind. "No use," he said disgustedly. "One must have the right numbers."

Then he lifted his fretted frame and smote his grimy hands together. "Confound it!" he said with a short laugh. "Here I am, a bankrupt, with all this outfit—clear to the very finger-bowls—handed to me on a silver tray, and I'm mad as scat because I can't open the first locked thing I find!"

He ran upstairs and donned a rough corduroy jacket and high leather leggings. "We're going to climb the hill today, Chum," he announced, "and no more moccasins need apply."

In the lower hall, however, he suddenly stopped stock-still. "The slip of paper that was in the china dog!" he exclaimed. "What a chump I am not to have thought of it!" He found it in its pigeonhole and, kneeling down before the safe, tried the numbers carefully, first right, then left: 17—28—94—0. The heavy door opened.

"I was right!" he exulted. "It's the plate." He drew it out, piece by piece. Each was bagged in dark-red Canton flannel. He broke the tape of one bag and exposed a great silver pitcher tarnished purple-blue like a raven's wing—then a tea-service. Each piece, large and small, was marked with the greyhound rampant and the motto. "And to think," he said, "that my great-great-grandfather buried you with his own hands under the stables when Tarleton's raiders swept the valley before the surrender at Yorktown! Only wait till Aunt Daphne gets you polished up, and on the sideboard! You're the one thing the place has needed!"

With the dog for comrade he traversed the garden and plunged across the valley below, humming as he went.

The place was pathless and overgrown with paw-paw bushes and sassafras. Great trees stood so thickly in places as to make a twilight and the sunnier spots were masses of pink laurel, poison-ivy, flaming purple rhododendron and wine-red tendrils of interbraided briers. This was the forest land of whose possibilities he had thought. In the heart of the woods he came upon a great limb that had been wrenched off by storm. The broken wood was of a deep rich brown, shading to black. He broke off his song, snapped a twig and smelled it. Its sharp acrid odor was unmistakable. He suddenly remembered the walnut tree at Rosewood and what Shirley had said: "I know a girl who had two in her yard, and she went to Europe on them."

He looked about him; as far as he could see the trees reared, hardy and perfect, untouched for a generation. He selected one of medium size and pulling a creeper, measured its circumference and gaging this measure with his eye, made a penciled calculation on the back of an envelope. "Great Scott!" he said jubilantly to the dog; "that would cut enough to wainscot the Damory Court library and build twenty sideboards!"

GOT THE RIGHT EXPRESSION

Experiment Was Painful to Tragedian, but He Could Not Hesitate When Art Called Him.

"Thanks," said the tragedian, setting down his glass and absent-mindedly pocketing my change, which lay upon the bar between us. "Many thanks for your good opinion. I always study from Nature—from Nature, sir. In my acting you see reflected Nature herself."

"Try this cigar," said an admirer of Nature, reverently. "Now, where did you study that expression of intense surprise that you assumed in the second act?"

"From Nature, sir; from Nature. To secure that expression I asked an inmate personal friend to lend me five pounds. He refused. This caused me no surprise. I tried several more. Finally, I struck one who was willing to oblige me, and, as he handed me the money, I studied in the glass the expression of my own face. I saw there surprise, but it was not what I wanted. It was alloyed with suspicion that the sovereigns might be bad. I was in despair."

"Well?" said the other, breathlessly.

"Then an idea struck me. I resolved upon a desperate course. I returned the five pounds to my friend the next day, and on his astounded countenance I saw the expression I was in search of. Yes, thank you, a small whisky as before."—London Tit Bits.

Korean Marriages.

Marriages between widows and bachelors are very much in favor in Korea because not nearly so much money is required from the bridegroom as in the case of his marriage with a young girl. The impecunious bridegroom is scorned by the parents of the girl and he is also unable to pay for the elaborate wedding ceremonies which must take place. All of this he escapes by running off with a widow. It happens in Korea, as in other countries, that the impecunious bachelor is often more desirable from every point of view but a mercenary one than the well to do member of the community. Consequently, the widow has a way of attaching a handsome young husband to herself that might well be envied by the young girl.

Not There for Experiment.

Edith and Flora were passing their summer vacation in the country.

"Do you know," said Edith, "that young farmer tried to kiss me. He told me that he had never kissed any girl before."

"What did you tell him?" asked Flora.

"Why," replied Edith, "I told him I was no agricultural experiment station."—Harper's Bazaar.

MRS. LYON'S ACHES AND PAINS

Have All Gone Since Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Terre Hill, Pa.—"Kindly permit me to give you my testimonial in favor of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. When I first began taking it I was suffering from female troubles for some time and had almost all kinds of aches—pains in lower part of back and in sides, and pressing down pains. I could not sleep and had no appetite. Since I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the aches and pains are all gone and I feel like a new woman. I cannot praise your medicine too highly."—Mrs. AUGUSTUS LYON, Terre Hill, Pa.

It is true that nature and a woman's work has produced the grandest remedy for woman's ills that the world has ever known. From the roots and herbs of the field, Lydia E. Pinkham, forty years ago, gave to womankind a remedy for their peculiar ills which has proved more efficacious than any other combination of drugs ever compounded, and today Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is recognized from coast to coast as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing hundreds of thousands of letters from women seeking health—many of them openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; and in some cases that it has saved them from surgical operations.

Good Cause for Alarm

Deaths from kidney diseases have increased 72% in twenty years. People overdo nowadays in so many ways that the constant filtering of poisoned blood weakens the kidneys.

Beware of fatal Bright's disease. When backache or urinary ills suggest weak kidneys, use Doan's Kidney Pills, drink water freely and reduce the diet. Avoid coffee, tea and liquor.

Doan's Kidney Pills command confidence, for no other remedy is so widely used or so generally successful.

Speeding auto cars and motor cycles is complained against by citizens of Centre Hall, who are beginning to see to real danger of the high speed of cars through the streets. There are but few automobile owners in the borough who have not frequently exceeded the speed limit of twelve miles an hour, and it is not unusual to see a car going at a twenty-five mile clip, and motor cycles at a higher speed.

LOCALS

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Meyer of Reedsville were in Centre Hall on Memorial day.

Dr. George D. Nutt of Williamsport, a noted physician and surgeon, died on Saturday.

H. G. Strohmeier is learning to gracefully operate the new car he purchased a few weeks ago.

Miss Grace Horner of Tusseyville visited with her sister, Mrs. Edward E. Bailey, from Thursday until Tuesday.

T. L. Smith, assisted by John Garis, is re-roofing the large barn and other buildings on the farm of Thomas Jodon at Pleasant Gap.

Flags decorated every home in Centre Hall on Memorial day. There was only one spot in the town that was without the stars and stripes and that was where "no booze today" is sold.

A large wild turkey hen was seen right above Centre Hall, in the vicinity of the gravel bank, by Clymer McClenahan on Monday.—And the hunting season nearly six months off!

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Meyer took their grandson, William Musser, who had been visiting here for some time, to his home in Mifflinburg. They made the trip in their Regal car on Friday, returning Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Homan of Centre Hall announce that the marriage of their daughter, Miss Vera Mary Homan, and Chester Earl Homan of State College will take place Wednesday, June 17th. Mr. Homan is a clerk in Krumrine's drug store at State College.

Malcolm D. Fleming, who for a number of years had been located in Wheeling, West Virginia, is now in Steubenville, Ohio, with the United Woolen Mills Company. Mr. Fleming is a high-class tailor, and holds one of the best positions with the company named.

On Friday morning the first two cases were submitted to the jury, who brought in a verdict on Saturday morning in favor of Mrs. Rhoads for $358.33, and in favor of Miss Kephart for $765.00, after which the court gave binding instructions to the jury in the case of Henry Doerr to find for the defendant.

Josephine Kohlbecker vs. Henry J Kohlbecker; Frances Kohlbecker vs. same, and Stella Kohlbecker vs. same; three cases in assumpsit; settled.

The W. T. Rawleigh Medical Company, a corporation duly incorporated under the laws of Illinois, vs. H. S. Taylor, A. E. Schad and E. T. Roan, guarantors of John Long, Jr., being an action in assumpsit; continued generally.

William Groh Runkle vs. W. T. Twitmire, admr. of etc., of Carrie D. Armstrong, deceased. Verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $323.19

Samuel Markowitz vs. Penna R. R. Co., being an action in trespass; continued generally.

Elizabeth S. Meyer vs. Elizabeth S. Meyer and W. H. McIntire, admrs. of etc. of J. C. Meyer, deceased. Verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $4874.95.

Court adjourned on Saturday at ten o'clock.

John Mosarosch, who was found guilty of voluntary manslaughter last week, was sentenced on Tuesday by Judge Orvis to serve one year in the penitentiary and also to pay a fine of fifty dollars.

Vonada-Crouse.

The Clinton Republican, dated Wednesday, June 3, contained the following account of the marriage of two young people of Penns Valley:

A quiet wedding was solemnized in Lock Haven yesterday when Miss Ruth Crouse of Aaronsburg, became the bride of Boyd Vonada of Spring Mills. The bride, who is the daughter of J. H. Crouse, formerly resided in this city and her friends will no doubt be pleased as well as surprised to hear of her marriage.

The happy married couple, accompanied by the father of the bride-to-be and her brother, Harry, autoed to this city yesterday morning and went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Campbell, No. 438 South High street, uncle and aunt of the bride. Here the services of Rev. A. F. Weaver pastor of the United Evangelical church, were secured, who tied the nuptial knot.

Congratulations and a wedding repast followed and in the afternoon the party returned home in the same manner in which they came. The groom is a Haines township, Centre county, school teacher and both the contracting parties are well and favorably known.

Growing Potatoes.

Squire F. A. Carson of Potters Mills and T. C. Bartges of Centre Hall are growing potatoes on an extensive scale, or rather the latter will begin doing so. Mr. Carson for a number of years has written the bushels of potatoes in his crop in four figures, and this year will plant seven or more acres. Mr. Bartges is just beginning to farm on his own account, and this year will plant thirty acres to potatoes. He will use a planter, and when the crop is grown expects to raise them by the aid of machinery.

Oiling the Streets.

Some forty barrels of road oil will be applied to the streets in Centre Hall, one section south of the diamond having already been oiled. Last summer the oiling was done by private parties, and the section now oiled was paid for by individuals, but since the council decided to oil all the streets it will refund the cost of the eight or ten barrels of oil already used.

Service will be held in the Reformed church Sunday evening at 7:30. The pastor will speak of the life of Fanny Crosby, the blind hymn writer, and some of the songs composed by her will be sung.

At a meeting of the plot holders of the Boalsburg cemetery on Monday evening an election for trustees was held. A. W. Dale and R. B. Harrison, whose terms had expired, were reelected by acclamation. The other trustees are E. W. Sweeney and O. W. Stover.

John Stover, Mrs. Wm. Stover, Mrs. Grant Charles and son Eugene were guests at a birthday party given for Mrs. Mary Page at her home near Linden Hall on Friday. Mrs. Page is eighty-one years old and is quite active yet.

The Memorial service in the Reformed church on Sunday was well attended. The veterans who were present were Israel Young, Joseph Hettinger, John Stover, Philip Dale, George Kaup and John Hook. Rev. S. C. Stover preached the sermon and the choir sang for the opening song, "When the roll is called up Yonder".

David Stuart of Bellevue Station, Wm. Hunter of Newport, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hunter of Juniata, Calvin Riley of Petersburg, Miss Esther Brown of Harrisburg, Mrs. John From, Mrs. Anna Zeigler, C. D. Moore and Misses Katharine and Margaret Weber of State College, who were formerly at home at Boalsburg attended the memorial exercises here.

The funeral of Mrs. John Miller of Pine Grove Mills was held in Boalsburg on the forenoon of Memorial Day. Among the relatives who were present from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Zeigler, Howard Zeigler, and sisters Katharine and Elizabeth of Benner township, Amos Fehl of Smullton, Mr. and Mrs. DeLaney of Centre Hall and W. E. Gettig of Altoona.

At the setting of the sun on Saturday, one of the prettiest and most interesting memorial ceremonies closed at Boalsburg, and this after the thirty-eight mounds over the bodies of soldiers had been decorated, patriotic songs sung, and an inspiring address made.

Long before the hour for the services proper to begin, the town was thronged with people from all nearby points. The parade was formed on the diamond underneath the stars and stripes, and was headed by Boal band, then came the veterans carrying wreathes, next the Odd Fellows and Knights of Malta, both carrying banners, then the children with lovely bouquets. On reaching the cemetery several patriotic songs were sung by a chorus of some twenty voices, and prayer was offered by Rev. S. C. Stover, and a patriotic address was then delivered by the Rev. R. D. Wolf of Greensburg, secretary of the Westmoreland County Home for the Poor. The band then played a dirge while the graves were being decorated. Three of the thirty-eight graves of soldiers were filled within the past year with the bodies of William Armstrong Jacobs of Howard, Anthony Knepp of Pittsburgh, and George Stone of Wilkinsburg.

DEATHS.

Mrs. Alma Miller, wife of John Miller, died at her home at Pine Grove Mills, Wednesday of last week, at the age of fifty-five years, nine months and seventeen days. Her death was due to bowel trouble.

Mrs. Miller was a daughter of the late Adam Rishel. She is survived by a son and a daughter, a sister, Mrs. Howard Zerby of State College, and four brothers, namely, William and Jasper, Oak Hall, and Ira and Oscar, Boalsburg.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. S. C. Stover, and interment was made at Boalsburg on Saturday morning.

Thomas Purdue, a well known and highly respected resident of Benner township, died on Friday at the Bellefonte hospital. Interment was made in Myers' cemetery on Tuesday, the funeral having been held from the home of his son, Edward Purdue, in Bellefonte.

Mr. Purdue was aged about eighty years, and lived for many years on the Purdue homestead on Muncy mountain, near Bellefonte, which farm he possessed at the time of his death. He is survived by several children, and was the father of the first wife of Frank A. Foreman.

Tyrone Has Big Fire.

Tyrone experienced one of the most costly and spectacular fires in its history Sunday night. It was also one of the most damaging and resulted in wiping out the Tyrone auditorium, a planing mill, several piles of lumber and a small house. The property loss is placed at $20,000. John Beam, the owner of the property, who resides at Northwood, was seriously burned in trying to rescue some valuables from the office of the mill. The fire is said to have been of incendiary origin.

LOCALS.

The John D. Lucas force of carpenters are erecting a porch to the front of the residence of the Misses Boal Merril Miller of Lock Haven has been the guest of his brother, Harry Miller, in Centre Hall during the past week.

Rev. and Mrs. R. F. Fetterolf of Selins Grove, on Tuesday, were guests of the former's sister, Mrs. P. H. Meyer in Centre Hall.

The mail between Madisonburg and Millheim will hereafter be delivered more speedily since Charles Rachau, the carrier, purchased a Ford car to be used for that purpose.

Mrs. Machael Delaney of near Centre Hall attended the funeral of her cousin, Mrs. John Miller, of Pine Grove Mills, an account of whose death appears elsewhere in this issue.

Miss Bertha Strohmeier accompanied Mrs. Emma Homan to Altoona on Friday, and while in that city they were entertained at the home of the latter's son, Al. E. Homan.

F. S. Armstrong and family, and Miss Millie Meek, all of Williamsburg, spent Sunday at the Henry E. Homan home. They traveled in their 1914 Cadillac. Mrs. Armstrong and Miss Meek are sisters of Mrs. Homan.

A conference of the missionary societies of the Lutheran church was held at Spring Mills on Tuesday and Wednesday, and was largely attended by delegates and others interested in missionary work at home and in foreign lands.

Keep in mind, teachers, boys and girls, that you will have an opportunity to secure instruction in elocution, voice and physical culture under Susan Stapleton Brubaker in the high school room, Saturday morning, June 6th, at 10:30 o'clock. This is a rare opportunity, and the young people should take advantage of it.

An unsavory odor comes to the nostrils of people who use the mountain road in their travel, right outside the borough precinct, and is occasioned by the promiscuous disposal of the carcasses of that animal whose only value lies in its pelt. The guilty party should be made bury the carcasses or remove them to a more remote section

Miss Frona Royer of Sprucetown was taken to the Bellefonte hospital beginning of this week by Dr. J. V. Foster. For more than a year Miss Royer has been unable to walk, except by the aid of a crutch, due to the fact that she broke or badly sprained the bones in one of her ankles. At the hospital the ankle bones will be laid bare, and the accumulation of puss removed.

The Millheim Journal of last week said: On Thursday night of last week, after doing some shopping in Millheim, Mrs. Shultz, wife of Ira Shultz, of Spring Bank, and Roy Held, a near neighbor, were driving through the Millheim narrows toward home. Near where the Philips creek crosses the pike, and at almost the same spot where highwaymen held up and robbed John Roush last fall, a man emerged from the bushes and grabbed for the horse's bridle. Luckily for the occupants of the buggy the horse was a broncho, and the bridle was not there when the scoundrel reached for it.

Court Decrees.

The court passed on several cases of interest to Reporter readers. These cases were up at argument court, and are finally disposed of.

In the case of College township vs. Thomas Fishburn the verdict rendered by the jury, which obliges Mr. Fishburn to pay to College township $148 stands. This case has long been in court, and was caused by a colt owned by Mr. Bohn having been hurt by running into a coil of barb wire lying in the road, the same having been placed there by Mr. Fishburn. A jury allowed Mr. Bohn damages in the sum of $204, the same to be collected from College township. College township then sued Mr. Fishburn to recover the loss, and was awarded a verdict of $148. Mr. Fishburn then wished this verdict set aside, and this the court refused to do.

The request for the exemption of $300 in the assigned estate of Erwin A. Bartges, Haines township, was refused.

Farm Talk.

Wheat is beginning to head out. The prospects are for a fine crop.

Clover and grass need rain badly. Much of the clover is heading, but has not attained any great length.

Alfalfa fields never looked more promising, and the crop will be ready to cut within a week.

Corn in some fields is coming up nicely. The crop is not all planted yet. The acreage will be much below the average in this section.

LOCALS

Messrs. W. E. Tate and William S. Brooks appraised the real estate of the late Miss Mary Potter.

The Odd Fellows cleared nearly one hundred dollars at their festival on the evening of Memorial Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bitner, on Wednesday, celebrated their thirty-ninth marriage anniversary at their home near Farmers Mills.

Among State's graduates this year is Ralph E. Bitner, son of Dr. H. F. Bitner, of Centre Hall. He will graduate from the school of electrical engineering.

The internal revenue inspector found business in this locality according to rumor, but the Reporter has no positive information. Neglect to cancel revenue stamps on empties is said to have been the base on which a fine was collected.

The Southern Jubilee entertainers (colored) will appear in Grange Arcadia tonight (Thursday) under the auspices of the Methodist church. Admission, 10 and 15 cents. On Friday night the same company will be in Spring Mills Methodist church.

Farmer William S. Brooks put aside his pair of black carriage horses, and is now traveling over the country with his family in a Ford touring car purchased from C. H. Breon & Company, Millheim, through the Centre Hall agency of Boozer-Fetterolf-Bartholomew.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Bradford on Friday will leave Centre Hall to make a tour through West Virginia and Kentucky. Mr. Bradford is interested in several lumber operations in the south, and among other places will visit Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Shadle at Charleston, West Virginia, and Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Rearick at Lumbard, Kentucky.

Sheriff A. B. Lee headed a searching party for an escaped prisoner from the Western Penitentiary. He was traced to Perry Breon's, west of Centre Hall, where he got a good dinner. He also stopped with Rebecca Yeager, where he laid in an additional supply of food, and at Al. Stump's he got a drink of water, but that was the last track left uncovered.

The Indianapolis News of May 22nd contained a picture with the notice of the death of Dr. John B. Thomas, whose wife is a granddaughter of Peter Smith of Centre Hill. For a year prior to six weeks ago he was house physician at the Beth El hospital at Colorado Springs. His age was twenty-seven years. He was a native of Rushville, Indiana.

A Madisonburg woman, according to a story printed in the Millheim Journal, found one good use for chewing gum, and it was this: Some time ago while Mrs. H. N. Fiedler, of near Madisonburg, was placing turkey eggs under a turkey hen to be hatched, the hen pecked an egg, breaking the shell. Mrs. Fiedler covered the break with chewing gum and placed the egg under the hen and a healthy young turkey was the result of the batch from the egg that had been broken.

Early Tuesday morning an automobile party with Miss Helen Bartholomew at the wheel, started on a run to Franklin, Venango county, where lives the family of Lorenzo Wilt, who on several occasions have been entertained at the Bartholomew home. Besides Miss Bartholomew, Mrs. W. H. Kreamer, Mrs. Rose DeWoodie and Miss Freda Bailey were in the company. The latter stopped off at Philipsburg and for a few days will be entertained at the home of Mrs. L Ray Morgan. Going through Clearfield county the car stopped at Curwensville and Mrs. H. J. Kittleberger and little daughter were taken along to the destination. They will return Friday.

Centre County Association of Philad.

The Centre County Association of Philadelphia will hold their annual summer outing in Fairmont Park, near Belmont Mansion, Saturday afternoon, 27th inst. The gathering will be in the form of a basket picnic.

L. F. Mayes of Lemont, on Tuesday, erected an eight-ton sarcophagus over the remains of Dr. George Lee, in the Centre Hall cemetery. The material is granite, the design exceptionally pretty, and the workmanship in lettering and cutting of ornaments of a high class, making the whole a beautiful piece of art. Mr. Mayes has long been in the business of producing high class work in marble and granite, and points to this particular piece marking the last resting place of Dr. Lee with great pride. He will be pleased to consult with all who contemplate erecting tombstones or monuments.

Japanese Like Other Babies.

There is a mistaken but popular belief that a Japanese baby never cries. There is really no reason why he should. Replete with nourishment and rarely denied a wish, he blossoms like a wild rose on the sunny side of the hedges, so sweet and so unrestrained.

His life is full of rich and varied interests. From his second day on earth, tied safely to his mother's back under an overcoat made for two, he finds amusement for every waking hour in watching the passing show. He is the honored guest at every family picnic. No matter what the hour or the weather, he is the active member in all that concerns the household amusements or work.

From his perch he participates in the life of the neighborhood, and is a part of all the merry festivals, that turn the streets into fairyland. Later, his playground is the gay market place or the dim old temples.—Francis Little, in the Century Magazine.

Question of Degree.

On a writ of error to the supreme court of one of the territories, counsel for plaintiff in error sharply criticized the rulings of the trial judge. When the counsel for the defendant in error began his reply, the following took place:

"May it please your honors, before I finish my argument, I think I can show you that the trial judge was not as crazy as counsel on the other side would make him out to be."

By a member of the court: "Let me understand you; you admit the fact of insanity of the trial judge, but deny its degree?"—Case and Comment.

Gentle, but Pointed.

A young practitioner had one troublesome patient—an old woman who was practically on the free list, but who registered more kicks than all the other patients put together. One day she called to roast him for not showing up when she called him the night before. "You can go to see your other patients at night," she complained, "so why can't you come when I send for you? ? Ain't my money as good as the money that them rich people pay you?" "I don't know, ma'am," answered the doctor, gently. "I have never seen any of yours."

The maiden lady of uncertain age became indignant when the census taker asked her age.

"Did you see the girls next door?" she asked; "the Hill twins?"

"Certainly," replied the census man.

"And did they tell you their age?"

"Yes."

"Well," she snapped as she shut the door in his face, "I'm just as old as they are!"

"Oh, very well," said the census man to himself, and he wrote down in his book:

"Jane Johnson—as old as the Hills."

CARE OF SURVIVORS

MANY ARE BADLY INJURED

All Are Thinly Clothed and Had Suffered From Plunge Into Icy Waters of the St. Lawrence—Few Women Saved.

Quebec, May 30.—A full equipment of ambulances supplied by Quebec, by the town of Levis on the opposite side of the river, and the army medical service corps was waiting at Levis when the special survivors of the Empress of Ireland train from Rimouski arrived and the survivors of the Empress of Ireland were immediately disembarked and transferred to the ferry steamer, which had been waiting at the special wharf to facilitate the transfer to Quebec.

It was a pitiful sight when the ferry steamer Polaris docked on the Quebec side at 8:30 o'clock Friday night and the 396 men and women survivors trooped falteringly down the gangway.

Victims Show Exhaustion.

The faces of all plainly registered the frightful experience they had gone through. Few of them possessed a complete outfit of clothes, the majority wearing only shirts, trousers and boots.

Heads were bared as the injured were brought ashore, supported by friends and officials of the company.

The second and third class passengers and the crew were immediately made comfortable on the Allan liner Alsatian, which was lying in an adjoining berth at the breakwater. The first class and injured passengers were transferred in automobiles and other vehicles to the Canadian Frontenac.

Twenty Women Are Saved.

Among the 25 survivors of the first cabin there were eight women and one child and, strangely, among the 29 rescued from the second cabin there were also eight women and one child. Of the 101 persons saved from the steerage four were women.

Among the 50 passengers left in Rimouski were a number who were so ill or so badly injured that they had to be taken to the hospital.

Special praise was given the heroic work of Dr. James F. Grant of Victoria, B. C., ship's surgeon on the Empress. To his coolness was credited the saving of a large number of persons taken out of the water who probably would have perished had they not received prompt medical attention.

FAMOUS PEOPLE DROWNED

Ill-Fated Liner Carried Men of World-Wide Reputation to Ocean Graves.

New York, May 30.—Laurence S. B. Irving, who, with his wife, was among the passengers on the Empress of Ireland, was widely known as an actor, author and manager. He received his education at Marlborough college, College Rollin, Paris, and spent three years in Russia studying for foreign office. His plays are well known. In 1908 and 1909 he presented sketches of his own authorship in England and America. He was a son of the late Sir Henry Irving.

Sir Henry Seton-Karr, one of the passengers on the Empress of Ireland, was created a knight in 1902, companion of St. Michael and St. George in the same year and was deputy lieutenant in Roxeburghshire. He was born in India on February 5, 1853, and was educated at Harrow and Oxford, taking class honors on law in 1876, and becoming a barrister in 1879. He traveled widely in this country and was an expert in shooting big game here and in British Columbia and Norway. He was interested in state colonization and was a member of parliament from 1885 to 1896. He published books, among them "The Call to Arms," "My Sporting Holidays" and various sporting articles and reviews. He was captain of the Royal Wimbledon Golf club in 1895 and 1896, and had a fine collection of American and Norwegian sporting trophies. His address was Kippilaw, St. Boswell's, N. B., and 47 Chester square, London, Eng. He was a member of the Carleton club, London, and New club, Edinburgh.

On Way to Marry.

Halifax, N. S., May 30.—Dr. M. A. Lindsay, one of the passengers on the Empress of Ireland, was pathologist at the Victoria general hospital. He was going to the old country to marry. His engagement to Miss Kathleen, second daughter of Richard Webb of Briarwood, Warwickshire, England, was announced yesterday, and the marriage was to have taken place the middle of next month.

Doctor Lindsay spent his first two years in the study of medicine at the Halifax Medical college. In 1908 he went to Edinburgh and graduated in 1911. He was also professor of pathology at the Dalhousie Medical college. He was a brilliant student and a great athlete.

Among the passengers was W. Leonard Palmer of the London Financial News, who is well known in Halifax. He came to Canada, landing at Halifax several weeks ago, and was returning home, accompanied by his wife.

Pioneer in Indiana.

Terre Haute, Ind., May 30.—George C. Richards, who, with Mrs. Richards and Mrs. Charles Gray and the latter's six-year-old daughter, was on the Empress of Ireland, going to visit his old home at Sheffield, England. He was a pioneer coal operator of Indiana. Mr. Gray is a nephew of Mrs. Richards.

Leading Denver Woman.

Denver, Colo., May 30.—Mrs. F. H. Dunlevy, a passenger on the ill-fated Empress of Ireland, is prominent in Denver society. Her husband, to whom she was married seven years ago, is a well-known realty dealer. Mrs. Dunlevy left Denver, April 15, and has since visited sisters, brothers and cousins in Boston, New York, Montreal and Quebec. She was highly accomplished and finished her education in Paris.

Summer Planned Abroad.

Rochester, Minn., May 30.—Herman Kruse, former secretary of the Rochester Commercial club, and his daughter, Miss Freda Kruse, a trained nurse, were among the passengers aboard the Empress of Ireland. With Seinholdt Boch and Miss Edith Boch, the Kruses left Rochester only a few days ago to spend the summer in Europe. Boch is a retired farmer.

Quit Ranch for Home.

Santa Barbara, Cal., May 30.—Alexander Bonthrone and George Jonnstone, who were passengers on the Empress of Ireland, left Santa Barbara last Friday for their home at Faulkland, Fifeshire, Scotland. The had spent the last year on a ranch near Santa Barbara. Bonthrone was twenty years old, Johnson twenty-two.

Milwaukeeans Aboard.

Milwaukee, May 30.—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Freeman of West Allis were passengers on the Empress of Ireland, on their way to Europe, where Mr. Freeman was to conduct some business for the Allis-Chalmers company. Mr. Freeman was superintendent of the forge department of his company during the last 15 years. He was fifty-two years and his wife about fifty.

Many From Detroit.

Detroit, May 30.—More than one hundred from Michigan were aboard the Empress of Ireland. Practically all of those from Detroit, however, were foreign laborers returning to their homes in various parts of Europe. It was stated here today that Charles R. Clark, London manager for a local automobile company, was aboard the vessel when it went down. It is not known here whether he survived.

Girls on Way Home.

Hillsboro, Ill., May 30.—Miss Florence Bawden and Miss Bessie Bawden, who were passengers on the steamer Empress of Ireland, left here last Monday for Quebec to take the steamer. They were bound for their home in Bridgewater, Somerset, England.

TWENTY-FOUR FROM WINNIPEG, MANITOBA.

Winnipeg, May 29.—Twenty-four residents of this city may have lost their lives in the Empress of Ireland disaster. The list includes the wife and two children of R. R. Gallagher, Mr. and Mrs. H. Peterson, Mrs. T. Nuttal and children, and R. A. Cunningham, assistant chemist at Manitoba agricultural college.

Mrs. Harriet Hakker, who, with her seven-months-old baby, was on the Empress, was the wife of John Hakker, caretaker of Canadian Pacific railroad bunkhouse.

Joseph J. Lennon, secretary-treasurer of the insurance firm of J. P. Turner & Co., was one of the passengers on the Empress.

Lieut. Kendall of the Royal navy, who commanded the Empress of Ireland, has had but few accidents.

FACTS ABOUT LATEST STEAMSHIP HORROR

Of the 433 persons saved from the sinking Empress of Ireland 237 were members of the crew.

Of the 87 first cabin passengers 29 are known to be saved. A few others of the rescued remained in Rimouski, near Father Point.

Among the 153 second cabin passengers, 29 were rescued and taken to Quebec.

Of the 715 steerage passengers 101 were rescued and taken to Quebec. A few third cabin passengers were left at Rimouski.

The proportion of crew rescued caused widespread comment, and contrasts with the heroic record of the Titanic. However, the Empress of Ireland sank in about seventeen minutes and there was little time for "women and children first." Most of them were asleep in their berths. The reports indicate a lack of panic.

The loss of life on the Empress of Ireland has been equaled or exceeded by only four marine disasters in the last century. These were the loss of the Rhone, Wye and other vessels at St. Thomas in the hurricane of October 29, 1867, when 1,000 persons perished; the burning of the excursion boat, General Slocum, in the East river, New York, on June 15, 1904, with an approximated loss of 1,000 lives; the loss of the Titanic on April 14, 1912, which sank with 1,490 of her company after collision with an iceberg, and the loss of the Kickemaru off the Japanese coast September 28, 1912, with a loss of 1,000 lives.

Laurence Irving, the well-known English actor, and his wife, Mabel Hackney, are among the missing—given up for dead. Irving is a son of the late Sir Henry Irving.

A Century Ago.

One hundred years ago Dr. Thomas Fanshawe Middleton was consecrated first bishop of Calcutta. The consecration took place in London, and soon afterward the new bishop sailed for India. In Calcutta, he laid the foundation for the Bishops' college in 1820, and established a consistory court in that city. While zealously engaged in his duties he was attacked with a fever, of which he died in 1822. For more than a century the efforts to spread the Christian faith in India have continued. Numerically the Christian population in the great eastern empire is still insignificant, amounting to only about one per cent of the population, but it is generally admitted to have an influence out of all proportion to its numbers.

The Irresponsible Adjective.

"I see you have announced me as the world-renowned orator," said the gifted speaker.

"Yes," replied the chairman. "We had to do something to make you seem important. Nobody around here ever heard of you."

In the Shuffle.

Magistrate—Officer, this prisoner says you have trumped up a charge against him.

Officer—He must be a joker, your honor; I had to use my club on him as he came within an ace of escaping.

Trade Secret.

"Where do you get the plot for your stories?"

"I have never had but one plot," declared the popular author, "and I swiped that from 'Romeo and Juliet.' All you have to do is to change the scenery and the dialect."

AVOID SPREADING OF DISEASE

Precautions That Should Be Observed by Those Afflicted With Tuberculosis.

All persons who are intimately associated with cases of active pulmonary tuberculosis cannot be too cautious about the proper disposition of tubercular sputum. Such sputum should always be received in cups containing a five per cent solution of lysol or carbolic acid, or, in the absence of these, milk of lime. Paper cups, made especially for this purpose, may be used and subsequently burned. Soiled handkerchiefs and cloths should be immersed for one hour in lysol or carbolic acid (five per cent) and then boiled before they are handled. The patient should be provided with a set of dishes for his exclusive use, and these should be kept by themselves and boiled thoroughly after each meal. Remember that tuberculosis is a preventable disease, but that its control can be accomplished only by the strictest observance of sanitary precautions.

In his latest poem, "Narcissus," Robert Bridges, the English poet laureate, has banished the comma entirely, so that a procession of adjectives may be taken, at the reader's option, as separate qualities, or as qualifying each other. Thus one may call his hero "almighty wondrous," or regard him as being both. Mr. Bridges' principles of punctuation are not obvious. He loves the exclamation mark, using it five times in the 28 lines of the poem, and sprinkles dashes about with prodigality. He adopts the colon and does not slight the interrogation mark, while using now and then a full stop.

Literary Talk.

"My dear, there's the candlestick on top of the clock. Don't you think that sort of thing is really a little too previous?"

"What on earth do you mean, William Henry?"

"I mean it's ahead of time."

Seeing Is Believing.

Miss Brown—Do you think that Sally Collins believes in this "uplift" movement?

Miss Jones—From the way in which she mounts a street car I have no doubt of it.

Very Likely.

For Real Speeding.

"Pop," said Inquisitive Ignatz, "how fast can a horse go?"

"Well," replied father, "a mile in two minutes and four seconds is considered good speed. Why do you ask?"

"Oh, I was just thinking," replied Ignatz, "what a shame it was that Paul Revere, Tam O'Shanter, and John Gilpin didn't have motorcycles."

Dr. Eliot on Education.

Dr. Eliot says: "The practise of England and America is literally centuries behind the precept of the best thinkers upon education." Is it not humiliating that an American is forced to make such an admission concerning our most vital American institution?

What can be done? How can this wasteful school system be speedily remedied so that it fills its real function and sends out into the world, boys and girls developed according to their individual talents as far as those talents permit? It is a big question, but in my next article, I propose to outline a rational, practical system of public education which will serve those ends.—Pictorial Review.

GET AFTER SUMMER PESTS

This Is the Time to Wage War Against the Deadly Fly and the Annoying Mosquito.

Let us bear in mind that one of the prime objects of a spring cleanup is to eliminate the fly and the mosquito. When we are exercising our muscles and our ingenuity ridding our dwellings and neighborhoods of dust and filth, it will be worth our while to give these twin winged pests serious attention.

The first spring fly, of course, came some time ago, though she is still pleasantly modest and retiring. It is not reassuring, however, to reflect that the little insect is keeping carefully out of our sight and the reach of our swatters while she lays a few myriads of eggs, which presently will hatch out into a whole flying regiment of nuisances and disease-carriers.

The shy and unobtrusive mosquito is making the best use of her time for the same purpose. When the open season on human beings arrives she hopes to have a whole army corps of her progeny to lead to the attack.

Now is the time to get busy if we want to preserve ourselves from the pests a few months hence. The swatter and the kerosene can are fully as important household implements at this season as the broom and the scrubbing brush.

Watchful Waiting.

Sonny—Snigs.

Old Man—What are snigs?

Sonny—I don't know. I ain't never caught any yet.

Practical Ones.

HER MOTHER-IN-LAW
Proved a Wise, Good Friend.

A young woman out in Ia. found a wise, good friend in her mother-in-law, jokes notwithstanding. She writes:

"I was greatly troubled with my stomach, complexion was blotchy and yellow. After meals I often suffered sharp pains and would have to lie down. My mother often told me it was the coffee I drank at meals. But when I'd quit coffee I'd have a severe headache.

"While visiting my mother-in-law I remarked that she always made such good coffee, and asked her to tell me how. She laughed and told me it was easy to make good 'coffee' when you use Postum.

"I began to use Postum as soon as I got home, and now we have the same good 'coffee' (Postum) every day, and I have no more trouble. Indigestion is a thing of the past, and my complexion has cleared up beautifully.

"My grandmother suffered a great deal with her stomach. Her doctor told her to leave off coffee. She then took tea but that was just as bad.

"She finally was induced to try Postum which she has used for over a year. She traveled during the winter over the greater part of Iowa, visiting, something she had not been able to do for years. She says she owes her present good health to Postum."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Postum now comes in two forms:

Regular Postum—must be well boiled. 15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum—is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same.

Dove on Gun of Death Ship.

While the Montana was teaming slowly northward through the fog a white dove, the omen of peace, blown apparently from the Virginia shore, alighted on a ten-inch gun on the deck of the cruiser. More than 100 bluejackets on the Montana, their terms having expired, are glad to be home. A little yellow swallow, blown to sea near Cuba, remained on one of the cruisers all the way to Vera Cruz and is still on the deck of the warship.—New York Correspondence Philadelphia Times.

RINGWORM ITCHED TERRIBLY

1545 Aisquith St., Baltimore, Md.—"My children were afflicted with what they called ringworm of the scalp contracted from a house-cat they were playing with. The ringworm formed on their scalps about the size of a silver dollar and their hair fell out, leaving a round scale or crust on their scalps. Their hair fell out in round spots. There was terrible itching, and they scratched till the blood came. They were very fretful and could not sleep at night, and they were very cross.

"They were treated for several months with no improvement whatsoever. I was told they would never have any hair and would always be bald. Then I began using Cuticura Soap in connection with Cuticura Ointment and the first week I could see the wonderful remedies were doing all they were claimed to do and in six weeks' time they were entirely cured. They all have a beautiful growth of hair." (Signed) Mrs. Sadie Pollock, Jan. 1, 1913.

Oldest Welshman.

The oldest Welshman in the world is Mr. Thomas Morris, who lives at Westernville, Neb. Although he is now an American citizen, he was born a subject of George III, at the little village of Berriew, Montgomeryshire, on January 15, 1794. He is therefore one hundred and twenty years old.

His father was an agricultural laborer and died when the boy was three years old. Morris was apprenticed to a cobbler and followed his trade in this country until 1871, when, at the age of seventy-seven, he emigrated to America.

The old man is very proud of the fact that he has lived in three centuries. He remembers the union of Great Britain and Ireland, the assassination of President Lincoln and the laying of the first Atlantic cable.

Morris can still walk with the aid of a stick and see with the aid of spectacles, which he first purchased after passing his hundredth birthday. His hearing is good, and he enjoys a cup of tea or coffee with each meal.—Daily Express.

Dog Mothers Kittens.

"Mike," a rat terrier owned by William Bailey of Georgetown, was discovered yesterday mothering a pair of kittens he had stolen from the home of a neighbor. "Mike" had gone to the house, picked the kittens up by the neck, and carried them to his own home, where he was discovered playing with them and making them comfortable in every way. When the two kittens were returned to thier mother "Mike" was inconsolable, and has since refused to eat.—Georgetown (Del.) Ditspatch to the Philadelphia Inquirer.

AND THEN THEY UNDERSTOOD

Locomotive Engineer Made Quite Plain What Had Caused Argument Between Travelers.

Two commercial travelers while in a train got into an argument over the action of the vacuum brake.

"It's the inflation of the tube that stops the train," declared the first traveler.

"Wrong, wrong!" shouted the second. "It's the output of the exhaustion."

Then when the train arrived at the station they agreed to submit the matter for settlement to the engineer. That gentleman, leaning condescendingly from his cab, listened with an attentive frown to the two travelers' statements of their argument. Then he smiled, shook his head and said:

"Well, gents, ye're both wrong about the workin' of the vacuum brakes. Yet it's very simple and easy to understand. When we want to stop the train we just turn this valve and then we fill the pipe with vacuum!"

"Hard Luck" Story.

A Washington clubman is firmly convinced that the fates are against him, especially with reference to his golf playing.

"It's no use,'" he said to a friend, "I can't 'lift the hoodoo.' Nine times out of ten I miss the ball when driving off from the first tee at the Country club. And every one of those nine times I look around and find the veranda lined with people, all staring at me with eyes the size of porcelain plaques on a plate rail. The tenth time, however, I hit the ball; I knock it to a speck. Then I turn proudly around, my chest swelling with pride. And there's not a single soul on the veranda. Everybody has just gone in."

THE CENTRE REPORTER.

THURSDAY, JUNE 4, 1914

DEATHS.

Thomas Scott Bailey, one of the best known residents of State College, died Wednesday morning of last week at his home in that place following a long illness from Bright's disease, aged sixty-two years.

Scott Bailey was a son of John and Nancy Bailey and a brother of the late County Commissioner John G. Bailey. He was well known throughout Centre county and esteemed by a host of friends. For more than twenty-five years he conducted a blacksmith shop and carriage shop in State College. He leaves his widow, formerly Miss Mary E. Glenn, to whom he was married Dec. 24, 1876, and these children: Warren of Trenton, N. J.; Mrs. Arthur Miller of State College; Annie, Mary and Foster at home. These brother and sisters also survive: Armstrong of Cruse City, Oregon; Samuel H. of Boalsburg; G. W. of Downs, Kansas; Warren of Springfield, Illinois; Mrs. Mary Hewitt of Kansas City, and Mrs. Esther Greggory of Neil's Mills. Mr. Bailey was a consistent member of the Presbyterian church and an ardent Republican.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Samuel Martin. Interment was made in the Branch cemetery.

Alma, wife of John W. Miller of Pine Grove Mills, died Wednesday of last week at 11 o'clock, after an illness of four days from bowel trouble, aged fifty-five years, nine months and seventeen days. She was a daughter of the late Adam Rishel, and an esteemed christian woman, being a member of the Reformed church. She leaves her husband, one daughter, Mrs. John Rudy of Tyrone, and one son, Alexander, at home. Three brothers and one sister also survive, namely: Oscar and Jasper Dale of Oak Hall; William Dale of Lemont, and Mrs. Harry Zerby of State College.

Funeral services were held Saturday morning at nine o'clock at Boalsburg, conducted by her pastor, Rev. S. C. Stover. Burial was made in the Boalsburg cemetery.

Anna Ripka Clouting, daughter of W. H. Ripka and wife, Sarah Wertz deceased, Middleburg, died in Shope's hospital Harrisburg, Friday evening, May 23, 1914, at 10:25.

She was born at Lewistown Junction, July 5, 1878, therefore aged thirty-five years, ten months and seventeen days. Her brother Charles and her mother preceded her to the future world. Those surviving are: the father, brothers W. W. of Harrisburg; Walter A. of Beavertown; and sisters, Mrs. Albert Gelnet, Pfouts Valley; Mrs. W. P. Shelly of Sunbury, and one daughter, May Clouting.

The funeral took place Wednesday afternoon from the late residence of her father. Interment in Glendale Cemetery, Middleburg. Rev. H. A. Stauffer officiated.

Mrs. Harriet Royer, relict of John Royer, died at her home in Millheim, Thursday of last week, from cancer of the stomach, a disease from which she had suffered for several years. Mrs. Royer was well advanced in years, her exact age being seventy-four years, nine months and five days. Funeral services were held from her late home on Monday morning, and interment was made in the Fairview cemetery, Rev. W. H. Brown, of the Evangelical church, officiating. The following children survive: Edward Royer, landlord of the Old Fort hotel; Charles and Lottie Royer, Millheim; William Royer, Altoona.

At her home in the rear of 907 Sixteenth avenue, Altoona, Mrs. Emma P. Wilson died Sunday evening at 8:30, after a long illness of kidney trouble. She was born at McAlevy's Fort, Huntingdon county, in 1850, and is survived by the following children: Mrs. Lee Derstein, Wilmer B., John H., all of Altoona, and Lloyd R., of Sunbury. A sister also survives, Mrs. Blair A. Gates, and three brothers, W. Howard Barr, Cyrus P. Barr, of Gatesburg, and Homer O. Barr, of Boalsburg. Deceased was a member of the First Presbyterian church.

Surprise Party for Mrs. Potter.

Thursday evening of last week a surprise party was given for Mrs. John M. Potter, below Old Fort, on the Brockerhoff farm tenanted by Henry Lingle. About eleven o'clock refreshments were served. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Sharer, Mr. and Mrs. George Potter, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Hettinger, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Runkle and son, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Potter and daughter, Mrs. Frank Decker and son, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Potter and family, Mrs. W. H. Homan, Mr. and Mrs. John Runkle, Mrs. Charles Slack, Mrs. John Rudy, Elizabeth Bible, Mary Frankenberger, Pearl McKinney, Elsie Rudy, Margaret Rudy, Ida Hettinger, Nettie Lingle, Edward, Ralph and Ernest Homan, Wallace Runkle, Fred, John and Russel Slack, Mr. Keller, Jacob, Jenette and Sidney Homan, John Lingle, Jacob, Ray and Franklin Sharer, Edward Bryan, Bloomer Weaver.

CENTRE HALL DEFEATED.

Millheim Triumphs Over Local Club, 8 to 6, on Memorial Day—Bradford Hits "Homer" and is Later Hurt in Slide to Third.

Millheim carried off the honors in the baseball game on Grange Park on Memorial Day when they defeated the home team by the score of 8 runs to 6. The game was bitterly fought from the start and Millheim won only after exerting themselves to the very limit throughout the entire game.

Errors spelt defeat for Centre Hall; eight times was a misplay made, and at least half of the indiscretions were responsible for runs. Dropped fly balls, which should have been caught with ease, resulted in more tallies for the visitors than did their stick work. Millheim scored eight runs on five hits, while Centre Hall could make their eight hits produce only six runs. It was the "eight" in the local club's error column that counted for victory for Millheim.

The visitors opened the game with a spurt, scoring two runs on short notice. Centre Hall came back in this inning and tied their rivals. Allison, first up, reached first on a dropped third strike; Paul Bradford was disposed of, but "Babe" Bradford proved a harder proposition. On the first ball pitched, Bradford put his weight behind his swing and met the ball waist high. It was a titanic lick. There was no doubt as to its size; home spectators had seen the same sort of drive in past seasons from this same player. Between left and centre fielders it sped, high over their heads with bullet velocity. The ball struck the ground beyond the road and Bradford had planted his spikes in the home plate before the ball was returned to the infield. There was a wild demonstration from the fans over the hit.

The two clubs alternated in taking the lead after the first inning, but Millheim made the game secure by scoring two runs in the seventh inning, making the score 8 to 6, which remained unchanged to the end.

Bradford pitched a good game for the local team, but was forced to retire from the game in the seventh inning when a head-first plunge in an attempt to steal third caused him to fall on his right shoulder in such a manner as to cause an almost serious injury. Allison finished the game.

Musser, one of the best little ball players Millheim can boast of, did the twirling for the common enemy and his record of ten strike outs speaks for his effectiveness. Miller, an old Rebersburg star, was behind the bat and besides catching a good game, helped in the run getting by poling out a home run over Auman's head which "Curly" barely touched. Auman later made a grand catch of a hard line drive, the force of which threw him on his face, but he held on to the ball.

The Millheim club traveled in the large transportation car of Victor Walker, who acted as one of the umpires of the game. Victor Auman was the other arbiter.

CENTRE OAK

Weather fine and the farmers are all busy.

Y. P. C. A. will meet with B. C. Grove on Sunday evening.

W. F. Rishel sold a dandy colt to J. C. Muthler, Beech Creek.

The John Hagan carpenter crew is going to State College; they are just more than crowded with work.

Mrs. W. F. Rishel and children spent Decoration day afternoon at Madisonburg.

Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Duck of Madisonburg spent Sunday at the H. D Hagen home at Farmers Mills.

B. F. Frankenberger and grandson Orvis of Millheim spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Frankenberger. The elder Frankenberger laid the foundation for a lime stack.

Decoration services at the Union cemetery, Farmers Mills, were largely attended by the citizens of the community. After the exercises at the cemetery all returned to the church where Prof. W. R. Jones delivered a very appropriate address in which he brought back to the minds of the remaining soldiers many facts of the days which they spent in saving our country, and also reminded the children as well as the older people of their duty and the battles they must need overcome to win eternal life.

It is with regret that the members of the Lutheran church learn of the resignation of their pastor, Rev. F. W. Barry of the Penns Valley charge. All join in wishing Rev. and Mrs. Barry success and happiness in their new field of labor.

Keep in mind the excursion to Pennsylvania State College Friday of next week. It is a most delightful time to visit Pennsylvania's greatest educational institution.
